1. I opened my browser (chrome) which I used regularly and in extension manager
   Where I only have google docs.

2. After reviewing my list of extensions, I noticed that I'm not using docs regularly.

3. I checked details of the google docs and I gave permissions like (site access).

4. I found nothing on my browser which can led me to trouble after giving permission.

5. So as I said before I didn't use google docs regularly so I removed it from my extension list.

6. Removed all kind of unwanted and unused extensions from my browser and checked the status of my newest extension list.

7. I learned that malicious extensions can:
   - Track your browsing activity.
   - Steal personal data like passwords and credit card info.
   - Show ads or redirect you to unsafe websites.
   - Slow down your browser or crash it.

8.
   I opened my browser
   See on menu clicked on extension
   In extension list I found only one unused extension named "google docs'.
   I see details to see my permission which I gave to the google docs.
   Removed the extension
   Restart my browser and see extension list again.
   There is no harmful extension on my browser anymore.
